Supreme Court Pondering Historic Steel Case

Final Decision May Not Come For Weeks

Written Opinion Being Urged By Justice Jackson

WASHINGTON, May 14.—The answer to the momentous question: Did President Truman exceed his legal powers when he seized the steel industry? began forming Wednesday behind the marble columns of the U. S. Supreme Court.

It may be a week, or several weeks, before the nine members of the court of last resort have resolved their own doubts and convictions in the quiet seclusion of their conference chambers.

The lawyers had their final say Tuesday for 1—Upholding, and 2—Reversing the decision of District Judge David A. Pine, who held the President's action was illegal and unconstitutional.

Justice Jackson spoke out from the bench against any hasty announcement. He said he will oppose making known the court's decision until the opinion explaining the reasons behind it has been written.

IF A MAJORITY of the nine justices go along with Jackson's view, it may be a matter of weeks before the country knows whether the President had — or didn't have — authority to seize the steel mills to avert a strike of 650,000 CIO United Steelworkers for higher wages.

If, however, a majority should decide to announce the decision in advance of the writing of the formal opinion, the outcome of the controversy over the President's "inherent powers" might be disclosed almost anytime.

Presumably all of the justices will participate in the decision, since they all took part in voting to review Judge Pine's decision without waiting for the case to take its usual course through the U. S. Court of Appeals. And all nine of them sat through the two days of arguments.

In his closing argument, John W. Davis, 79-year-old attorney for the steel industry, called the seizure "an extension of executive power lacking legislative authority without parallel in American history."

But Solicitor General Philip B. Perlman, who spoke for the administration, derided as "a lot of fantastic hogwash" the industry's claim of irreparable injury from the seizure.

Perlman said the steel companies could collect from the government any damages they could prove in court.

DAVIS OBSERVED that the seized companies have not yet filed suits for damages, but he said he hoped Secretary of Commerce Sawyer, who took over the mills under presidential order, could pay losses as high as $300 million.

Davis used only nine of the 63 minutes he had left to wind up his argument. Perlman, who had only 17 minutes left, was kept on his feet for almost an hour answering questions from the bench which did not stop when the red light flashed.

When Perlman told the court "we are at war" and must have an uninterrupted supply of steel, Justice Jackson cut in:

"Hasn't the President specifically disclaimed that? Hasn't he said it was a police action?"

Meanderings

By Wash Fayette

Here in Fayette County where the Record-Herald has shown many pictures of motor car accidents as a grim reminder of the need for more careful driving, the warning for greater precaution is repeated again and again by county and city authorities, the Fayette County Auto Club and scores of individuals.

Perlman on the highways, as well as on city streets, is made more emphatic by some statistics from the National Safety Council.

Gasoline consumption in the United States for the first two months of 1952 is up 10 per cent over 1951. This figure is generally used by the council in computing highway travel.

This 1952 increase, coming before vacation driving has really begun, presages the greatest total of travel miles in U. S. history, and since the death curve tends to follow the travel curve consistently, we may be in for a new high in motor traffic fatalities.

These highway deaths are the most forbidding of all facts which call attention to the fact that this country does not have half its highway problems solved.

When will we get around to facing up to this difficulty?

New Episcopal Center Is Planned Near Here

Just what the new conference center of the southern Ohio diocese of the Episcopal Church on the Procter farm between here and London will mean to the members of the church in Washington C. H. today remained conjectural.

So also were the plans for its use still a bit hazy. The broad plan for making the 1,000-acre estate, owned by Mrs. William Cooper Procter of Cincinnati, an Episcopal conference center was announced at the diocesan convention which opened in Columbus Tuesday and will be concluded Wednesday.

Neither Dr. Stewart B. Smith nor Mrs. Donald Lang, the two representatives of St. Andrew's Church here at the convention, nor Rev. Sanford Lindsey, the church rector, who also attended the gathering, could be reached for comment or further elaboration on the conference center plans.

REV. LINDSEY serves as the rector of both the Washington C. H. and London Episcopal churches. He makes his home here with his mother and drives back and forth to take care of his work. By coincidence, the projected center is

Ohioan Admits Worry With McCarthy Deal

WASHINGTON, May 14.—Carl G. Strandlund conceded Wednesday he was worried when he paid Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.) $10,000 for an article on housing that some implications might be drawn from the deal.

"It scared me some," he told the Senate Elections Subcommittee. "I made it a point never to confer, to discuss, to contact or concern myself with Sen. McCarthy from that point on."

Strandlund was in the witness chair for the third straight day as the subcommittee looked into a resolution by Sen. Benton (D-Conn.) aimed at unseating McCarthy.

This phase of the subcommittee's investigation deals with McCarthy's acceptance of the fee from Strandlund, who at the time of the payment on Nov. 12, 1948, was head of the defunct Lustron Corp., a Columbus, Ohio, prefabricated housing outfit.

Benton maintains it was unethical and improper for McCarthy to accept the payment. McCarthy says there was nothing wrong with the deal.

Strandlund swore Tuesday he thought the contract with McCarthy was a good investment at the time, but never expected it to develop political impact.

The industrialist denied knowing when he made the payment that McCarthy was a member of a Senate Banking Subcommittee dealing with RFC affairs.

REDS PLANNING FILIBUSTER IN ARMISTICE CONFERENCE

General's Campaign Rapped And Praised

Taft Making Strong Stand In Poll Of West Virginia's Republicans

CHARLESTON, W. Va., May 14.—Sen. Robert A. Taft's delegate lead over Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower slipped to a 14-to-1 edge Wednesday in their contest for West Virginia's 16 votes in the GOP presidential nominating convention.

Taft had held a 15-to-1 lead in the early count of Tuesday's heavy primary vote. But later tabulation showed an unpledged candidate in the Third Congressional District had taken the lead from one Taft man.

In popularity votes, Taft was scoring a better than 3-to-1 victory over Harold E. Stassen.

Percentage-wise, Taft was leading Stassen by 78.2 to 21.8.

Some of the interest in the popularity voting was lost when Eisenhower's name was not entered.

Eisenhower's supporters contended if they elected a single delegate over the opposition of the state's strong GOP organization it would represent an Eisenhower victory.

The general's name was not on the ballot and West Virginia law makes no provision for write-in votes.

Results in 1,120 precincts showed 54,916 votes for the Ohio senator against 15,299 for Former Gov. Harold Stassen of Minnesota.

Democrats held no presidential popularity contest and, without a fight, named a 20-vote delegation to the nominating convention.

Both GOP and Democratic delegations are officially unpledged.

In Washington, Sen. John Marshall Butler of Maryland took issue with Eisenhower's statement this week that, if the American people want him for President, "they know where to find me." The general made the remark in repeating his intention not to campaign prior to convention time.

Butler said no man should be begged to be President, adding: "I am not ready to admit that we are that hard up for presidential material."

Taft and W. Averell Harriman, who seeks the Democratic nomination as President, criticized the campaign on behalf of Eisenhower, while Sen. Frank Carlson of Kansas praised the general.

Taft spoke to a group of women campaign workers in Washington. He told them that, if nominated, he would not make "the kind of a 'me-too' campaign conducted by Gov. Dewey in 1948 and which I have no doubt he will recommend to Eisenhower."

New York's Gov. Thomas Dewey, a strong Eisenhower man, has said he will urge the general to campaign vigorously if nominated. Dewey attributes his 1948 defeat by Truman to over-confidence and a too-easy-going campaign.

Harriman told the National Press Club the general as a Republican would be "surrounded by those men who have blocked progress in this country." He said Taft is among such men.

Carlson, an Eisenhower supporter, told a Mitchell, S. D., rally that Eisenhower often has spoken out against the Truman administration. He said the general was offered the Democratic nomination "on a platter" in 1951 but turned it down.

A compromise between Taft and Eisenhower forces was being worked out for Texas' 38 GOP delegates, to be chosen in a state convention May 27 at Wells.

Republican leaders in three of Indiana's 11 congressional districts endorsed Taft. The action is not binding on the districts' two delegates to be named June 6-7. Indiana will have 32 votes.

Two delegates leaning toward Eisenhower were named in Missouri, bringing his total there to 15. Taft has three and six are uncommitted.

In Minot, N. D., a red-hot battle for North Dakota's eight-vote Democratic delegation was coming to a showdown.

Backers of Sen. Estes Kefauver of Tennessee waged a losing fight Tuesday to have the delegation instructed for him. Amid verbal fireworks, the convention voted to leave the delegation unpledged.

In Oregon, which names 12 Democratic and 18 Republican delegates in a primary Friday, Kefauver said there was a stop-Kefauver movement. The Tennessean is virtually unopposed in his bid there.

Ed Downs, Democratic Party chairman in South Dakota, said in Aberdeen the state's eight-vote unpledged delegation will support Sen. Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota on the first ballot.

Panel Urges Congress Revoke Air Force's Cincinnati Plan

WASHINGTON, May 14.—A House Armed Services Subcommittee Wednesday recommended that Congress revoke immediately the authorization it gave the Air Force to set up a reserve training center at Greater Cincinnati Airport in Boone County, Kentucky.

The committee issued a report in which it said reserve activities should be continued at the Clinton County Air Force Base, Wilmington, Ohio.

The committee last week inspected both fields in its investigation of an Air Force decision to move the training center to Greater Cincinnati Airport.

Congress has appropriated some $2 million for construction of the center at Greater Cincinnati.

The committee recommended that the money be held up and that whatever amount is needed for immediate rehabilitation of the Clinton County field be provided. The subcommittee suggested up to $100,000.

"THE GREATER Cincinnati proposal of the Air Force," it said, "is at best an adventure, wholly untried (and) highly speculative."

The committee suggested any proposal to set up the center at Greater Cincinnati be "condemned as without justification and wasteful of public funds and property."

The report went to the full Armed Services Committee.

The report said the only justification for choosing Greater Cincinnati over Clinton County is the application of an "arbitrary yardstick" of a 25-mile radius from which to draw men for the unit.

Air Force witnesses contended at a hearing last week that they have trouble getting reserve airmen to travel more than that distance to train.

"The Air Force's arbitrary 25 miles limit in our opinion is without justification and is contrary to its own experience in this area," the report added. "By actual test, Clinton is a real hub."

Within 50 miles of Clinton County, the report said, "there is more than an adequate population to support a 2,300-man unit successfully."

The roster of reservists now belonging to the unit at Clinton, the congressmen said, shows that nearly half come from Columbus, Dayton and towns within a 30-to-50-mile radius of that field. About half are from Cincinnati.

THE SUBCOMMITTEE said the $2 million already appropriated for Greater Cincinnati Airport "is only the beginning of even greater expenditures" that would be needed to provide even a part of the facilities now available at Clinton County.

Clinton County air field, it said, needs only paint and minor maintenance that would cost slightly under $100,000 to place it "first class condition now."

The completion of new facilities at Greater Cincinnati would take at least a year, it added.

In locating at Greater Cincinnati, the subcommittee stated, the government would be scraping nearly $6 million invested in the Clinton County field.

The report summed up this way: "The subcommittee is satisfied from all the testimony of the Air Force and from its inspection and interviews that the choice of Greater Cincinnati is wasteful and ill-considered; that there is a greater potential of reserve strength at Clinton County; and that it would be profligate, in the extreme, to abandon the millions of dollars invested at Clinton to embark upon a speculative venture at Cincinnati."

Koje Incident Giving Enemy Propaganda

Communists Shun UN Proposals, But Have None Of Their Own

MUNSAN, May 14.—Communist negotiators announced Wednesday they will insist on daily truce talks—meetings which the Allies say Reds have turned into "propaganda attacks which contribute nothing" toward peace in Korea.

The Red announcement came from North Korean Gen. Nam Il.

He said the Communists would not accept the Allies' proposed armistice package but gave no hint the Reds would offer a new solution of their own.

He made it clear the Reds have no intention of breaking off negotiations. He has been doing almost all of the talking recently.

Wednesday, he injected the Kojé Island prison camp kidnapping of Brig. Gen. Francis T. Dodd into the negotiations.

Nam Il charges the Allies were treating prisoners inhumanely. He said this was proved by concessions which Brig. Gen. Charles F. Colson granted Red prisoners last week to effect Dodd's release. The very wording which Nam Il quoted was previously labeled by the U. S. military command in Washington as misleading.

VICE ADM. C. Turner Joy said Nam Il brought up the newest incident of turbulent Kojé solely "to propagandize from this tent rather than act seriously in interest of an armistice."

"It is equally apparent," Joy told Nam, "that the major reason for such obstruction tactics is your fear of open joint screening of prisoners of war, conducted under fair and equitable circumstances."

Screening of prisoners, and what they said during the process, is the basis of the Allied armistice package, the issue over which talks are deadlocked, and a motivating factor of Red POWs in kidnapping Dodd, then Kojé prison commander, last Wednesday.

Nam Il charged the Allies were trying to delay truce talks by their "outrageous attitude."

He said unless the UN Command "explicitly declares" it wants to break off the conference the Communists will insist on daily meetings and continue to refuse to accept the final Allied package offer.

Dodd and Colson, former commanders of the Kojé Island Communist war prisoner camp, flew to Tokyo Wednesday to confer with new United Nations commander, Gen. Mark Clark.

Dodd was captured by the Red prisoners last Wednesday and held hostage 78 hours. Colson succeeded him Thursday.

Both were relieved of the camp command and returned to former duties pending an investigation of the Dodd kidnapping and Colson's promise of concessions to the Reds to gain Dodd's release.

Meanwhile, small fights lasting as long as four hours broke out along the Korean front.

The Eighth Army reported an Allied patrol killed 36 Communist troops in an early morning raid. The patrol drove the Reds out of an advanced position on the central front and held it for 45 minutes until the Communists counter-attacked.

The longest pre-dawn skirmish, also on the central front, broke out when Reds probed in the Kumhwa sector where UN tank patrols tested Chinese defenses Monday and Tuesday.

The skirmish was between two Red squads and Allied outposts. The Communists finally pulled out at 4:45 a. m. Nearby two Communist platoons fought nearly an hour and a half with Allied outposts. Thirty-one attackers were reported killed in the two fights.

Air Force and naval planes reported nearly 200 new cuts were blasted in north Korea's patchwork rail lines Tuesday. The Air Force reported its raiding planes destroyed 65 Red buildings and damaged 25.

Style Revue and Entertainment Put on by Home Economics Girls

A variety show, which featured a style revue in which 70 girls modeled the dresses they had made as a part of their high school course this year, was put on by the home economics department of Washington C. H. High School in the auditorium Tuesday night.

A crowd that nearly filled the auditorium expressed its amazement at the accomplishments of the girls and the quality of the entertainment with enthusiastic applause from start to finish.

More than 120 girls are enrolled in the home economics department headed by Mrs. Olive Woodyard. While the primary purpose was to show off the dresses made by the students, the style revue was by no means the whole show.

Each class in the revue had its own narrator who introduced the girls and explained and described their handiwork. The speakers who opened the program were Mary Lu Biehn, Janice East, Carolyn Dray, Dianne Elliott, Peggy Williams, Paula Sperry, Marjorie Ratliff and Shirley Church.

The Award of Merit certificate was presented to Cleotia Adams the Future Homemakers Club president, by Betty Roberts. And the seniors in FHA were given farewell tokens of appreciation and recognition.

THE WASHINGTON C. H. chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution also gave recognition to two of the FHA girls for their achievements—to Barbara Barger for her imaginary home arrangement and to Eula Cox for her dressmaking.

Corsages were sent to the 31 girls who waited table at the May Day breakfast by the Professional Nurses Association here.

Three state Homemaker Degree girls, Harriett Cunningham, Esther Marting and Cleotia Adams—were introduced.

The entertainment program was sandwiched in between the style revue by the different classes.

The numbers on the entertainment program included:

A vocal solo by Carolyn Merritt, accompanied by Jo Davis; Tap dance by Joyce Pettit, Esther Marting and Jane Van Voorhis; Baton twirling by Joyce Bandy; piano solo by Julie Persinger; An accordion trio of Ruthann Mathias, Clara Leeth and Barbara Yarger playing "It Is No Secret," was narrated by Shirley Rumer.

Eula Cox and Thelma Beedy sang "Blues Stay Away From Me" with guitar accompaniment by Eula; Verna and Priscilla Rayburn sang "Wedding Bells," accompanied by Clara Leeth on the accordion and a piano selection by Nancy Davis.

Farewell Breakfast Held by Y-teen Clubs

Members of the WHS Y-teen Club said a sad farewell to the seniors at their customary breakfast which was held this year at the Washington Hotel Coffee Shop. It was lovely affair at which the sadness of parting was leavened by the sociability.

Arrangements were in charge of Miss Marjorie Evans, the dean of girls and club advisor, Shirley Vincent, the newly elected president of the Senior Y-teen Club, and Mila Weatherly, this year's president of the Junior Y-teen Club.

Marilyn Cunningham, the retiring president of the club, expressed her appreciation to the members for their cooperation and then turned the symbol of her office over to her successor, Shirley Vincent, who thanked the girls for the confidence they had placed in her by electing her for their president for next year.

CHICAGO, May 14 — (P)—Corn showed a little strength at times on the Board of Trade Wednesday but the rest of the market was not able to go ahead.

May rye fell several cents at times in a reaction from its sharp advance of the past few days.

An improvement in the corn-hog feeding ration, which will make it profitable to feed corn to hogs, seemed to be the main reason for the better showing of that cereal. New crop wheat deliveries declined on excellent crop prospects.

The Nation Today

By JAMES MARLOW
WASHINGTON, May 14—(P)—Fires are building in Germany. Here's how they were started:

The Big Four—United States, Russia, Britain, France—divided Germany into four occupation zones at war's end. The struggle for Germany between Russia and the West began.

Years passed. No hope in sight for a peace treaty with united Germany. Russians set up puppet-government, Communist-controlled in East Germany. Western Allies let West Germans have their own government, headed by Chancellor Konrad Adenauer.

The occupying forces stayed but the Allies allowed Adenauer's government much freedom. The Western Allies formed the Atlantic defense pact. This meant building an army. European partners in the pact were France, Belgium, Luxembourg, The Netherlands, Italy.

THE WEST GERMANS were offered a deal:

1. A contractual agreement. Fancy name for what in effect would be a peace treaty with West Germany, linking it with the West. Adenauer was for it.

2. West Germany was asked to contribute troops for the European Army. Its troops would be part of the European Army, not a new German war machine.

The Russians were losing West Germany to the Allies. So they offered this deal:

1. Germany should be unified.
2. Big Four should finally sign long-delayed peace treaty.
3. Germans should be allowed to rear, make own weapons.
4. New, unified Germany couldn't make any military alliances.

The purpose was clear: By appealing to the old German nationalism and giving the West Germans a vision of a new Germany, the Russians hoped to split them from the West and wreck the European Army.

Once the Allies were out of the new Germany, German Communists could take over the government from within.

But the Russian proposal put the Allies on the spot. The Russians would look like heroes to the Germans, the Allies like villains, if the latter turned down the tricky Russian offer cold.

Before the Russian idea of unifying all Germany can be carried out, the Allies insist, all Germans must be able to vote for a new government in free elections.

THEY DON'T WANT Communist-rigged elections in East Germany. The Allies said no treaty talks start before a new and united German government can take part.

The Allies took a dim view of Russia's plan to let all Germany re-arm and they rejected the Russian suggestion that a united Germany be forbidden to make military alliances.

Communists in Germany rioted this week over the contractual agreement, which may soon be signed, and threatened reprisals. Moscow's press warned Adenauer's government against signing.

Big Celebration Being Planned By Moose Here

3-Day Observance Of 16th Anniversary To Start Friday

Three big days are now just around the corner for the Moose Lodge here.

A 16th anniversary celebration that is to include both the good times and fellowship of a fraternal order and the solemnity of its ritualistic services has been arranged for Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

There is to be a dance every night, but the rest of the program is marked by variety.

All of the festivities, except the parade Sunday afternoon, are to be held in the lodge rooms on East Court Street, on the second floor next door to the State Theater.

Most of the evening's program for the opening day of the celebration is to be given over to hilarity with a 50-50 dance at 8 P. M., the central feature.

There will be another 50-50 dance Saturday night with an entertainment, probably a floor show, for the intermission.

The affairs of the first two days and evenings are for Moose and their invited guests, but Sunday is for members of the lodge only.

THE FINAL DAY of the anniversary observance is to be started off in the lodge with an initiation at 2:30 o'clock in the afternoon. It is to wind up with a dinner and dance.

The initiation ceremonies are to be given the full treatment with the national champion Moose drill team coming here from Columbus for the occasion. Along with it will be the women's drill team from Columbus and a children's band.

These are to be three features of the parade through the business section of the city in the afternoon. A performance by the drill teams and a concert by the children's band is planned for the block on North Main Street opposite the Court House.

This parade and public demonstration is to give some conception what goes on within the sanctum of the Moose Lodge, which usually is for the eyes and ears of the members only.

Just how many will be here for the eventful occasion, Moose officials today declined to even estimate. But, they did say that members of the lodge from a number of Ohio cities had sent word they would be here to help celebrate the anniversary.

OSU Trustees Give Go-Ahead For TV Setup

COLUMBUS, May 14—(P)—Ohio State University trustees have authorized steps necessary for establishment of a television station for educational purposes.

The board approved a recommendation of President Howard L. Bevis that the university seek the best available television channel.

Channel 34 in the Ultra High Frequency range has been allocated to "education" in this area by the Federal Communications Commission.

Before the university can start operating a station, it first must obtain the right to use a channel, procure a license and install equipment.

Bevis said the university has until April 14, 1953, to accept a wave length. Otherwise the wave length becomes available to commercial use as well as education.

The university had applied for Channel 12 in the Very High Frequency spectrum. The FCC, however, allocated Channel 34 to "education" and Channel 40 for commercial use in the Columbus area.

As for the cost of installing and operating a television station, Bevis said, "it will be within the resources of the university."

Video-Radio Programs Due For Cleanup

WASHINGTON, May 14—(P)—The House Monday ordered an investigation of television and radio programs.

The objective is to drive "immoral or otherwise offensive" matter from the airwaves through legislation to be recommended following the study by the House Commerce Committee.

Rep. Gathings (D-Ark.), author of the resolution ordering the investigation, told the House a one-week survey of radio and television programs carried between 6 p. m. and 9 p. m., when there is a large juvenile audience, showed 91 murders and numerous other crimes.

Rep. Bryson (D-SC) said, "The untrained youth of the land is being corrupted, wilfully and maliciously," by radio and television programs.

There was no vocal opposition to the resolution, but Rep. Miller (R-Neb.) cautioned: "It is very dangerous. . . to say what cannot be taught, or seen, or heard."

WASHINGTON, May 14—(P)—The Agriculture Department said Monday it will restrict importation of raw bone meal and bone feed to prevent spread of anthrax in livestock.

In a recent outbreak of anthrax among hogs in Midwest states, Ohio's epidemic was traced to an imported mixed fee of bone meal and meat scraps. The department said proper steam cooking will destroy harmful organisms. However, Dr. B. T. An electric water system pumps more water for one cent than a man would pump all day long! It saves miles of steps, tons of carrying. Work time saved by an electric water system amounts to 28 eight-hour days in a year.

Running water on the farm offers valuable fire protection. Piped to water livestock and poultry, it increases production and profits. Used generously to water the garden, it more than doubles production.

In the home, running water pumped and hauled electrically lightens housework, saves time, adds comfort and convenience in kitchen, bathroom, laundry or utility room.

Electric pumps can switch on automatically to keep the storage tank filled; the water flows under pressure to the house and other farm buildings. For advice on sizes and types of electric water systems, consult your county agent and the Dayton Power and Light Company farm representative serving your neighborhood.

Need Is For Moderation and Common Sense

An American worker and union man can favor high wages without falling for the fallacy of wanting to punish capital in the process.

It is private capital, which is rewarded through dividends, which supplies him his job. This system has yielded the workers more benefits than any other contrived by man.

The high wage argument is good if not pressed to the point of immoderation. There is a point which, if exceeded, results in diminishing returns. Private capital, deprived of its share of the rewards, may become disinterested in expanding and modernizing America's great producing plants if unions become too selfish.

The consequences would be, first, finance-starved plants, deterioration, less production, fewer jobs at lower wages. Then the government would step in with money wrung from taxpayers or created by printing presses.

In the course of time the government, with power of purse, would take charge of industry and start ordering the workers around. Benefits of collective bargaining would vanish, the government would set wages and conditions of labor and tyranny would be in full bloom.

These are among the possible consequences of minds fixed adamantly because of a sense of power and un mindful of the larger and more enduring good. Both management and labor ought to understand that progress is dependent upon cooperation and mutual esteem.

Continual industry-wide work stoppages can lead only to disaster. Politics for partisan advantage should play no part in this.

TV In School

Having successfully adapted movies and radio to classroom use, it was inevitable that the schools would seize on the potentialities of television. The newest medium of communication, until now associated in young minds with cowboys, Indians and puppets, has been shown to have vast possibilities for instruction.

The first large-scale demonstration of television in the classroom has just been made by Montclair Teachers College in 13 schools in Montclair and Bloomfield, N. J. The experimental programs showed how the teacher's work can be made more effective in such fields as civics, current events, languages, music and geography.

A New York expert who watched the demonstration said the possibilities are beyond imagination. "We're like observers at Kitty Hawk, trying to imagine the Super-Constellation out of the Wright Brothers' original model," he said.

Japanese Progress

The International Christian University has just been dedicated at Mitaka, near Tokyo, marking an important step in the cultural life of a people whose interests and energies, formerly devoted to war, are turning to the paths of peace.

Buildings erected for the training of Japanese aviators are being remodeled into classrooms, with funds which came from both the Japanese people and Christians in all parts of the world. Even non-Christians in Japan have been liberal in their contributions. Hisato Ichimada, governor of the Bank of Japan, says the Christian philosophy underlying Japan's democracy is the only force which will save the nation.

President of the university is Dr. Hachiro Yuasa, a graduate of the University of Illinois. The principal purpose of the university is to train graduates for careers in government and public service. Japan has seen nothing like it in all its history, nor has the world.

On A Platform in Time --

By Hal Boyle

KANSAS CITY.—It is a long road back to childhood; it is hard to find the way.

Coming back to the home of his boyhood, a man finds it hard to forgive the changes. He has a vague resentment that things don't stay just as he left them. . . just as he holds them in memory.

He misses the neighbors who have died or moved away. Who cut down that tree in the back yard he climbed as a kid? The patch of blue sky looks bare and new. And the elm tree in the front yard. How did it ever get that tall?

Somehow he feels a stranger in the old house, lonesome because it has changed as much as he has. He has lost some hair and got a new false tooth. The house has been shingled, papered, and modernized with a new sink, another bathroom and a fine gas furnace.

I always have this lost feeling momentarily when I return to visit our family home here. It is old enough to be getting hardening of the rafters. But instead it is getting disgracefully younger and younger looking as I get more and more middle-aged. Why should a man age and a house grow young? What kind of a world is that?

The nicest thing in our old home right now is my 8-year-old niece, Kathy, the prettiest cowboy in the block. Kathy is at an age when she is losing her belief in the Eastern Bunny but still has a firm faith in the angels.

"I prayed you would come back—and you did," she told me.

"I used to pray when you were away at the war or somewhere, and you came back then, too."

Although Kathy is glad to see me, the thing she really likes best about my visits is that I sleep in her bed and she gets to sleep with her grandma, which is a great privilege.

There is nothing like children to keep a house from growing old. I guess it is Kathy who keeps our house vital and young.

One morning I awoke early and went downstairs. The steps still creaked betrayingly, just as they had years before when any of the boys tried to creep silently up them after coming home late.

Sitting alone in the silent living room, a room full of old family memories of quarrels and kindness, tears and warmth, I had the feeling of being a prisoner between two worlds—the restless present and the lost, unchangeable past.

I walked to the big, old-fashioned front door and looked out. Up the street came two young boys, delivering morning newspapers. They looked like brothers, and they were jostling each other and laughing.

Thirty years ago my older brother, Edward, and I had walked through the dawn streets this same way, laughing, jostling and arguing as we threw the morning papers—kerplunk! — on the front porches.

I stepped out on the porch and picked up our paper. The two boys looked at me curiously, then walked on. I watched them go, and it was as if I stood on a little platform in time—watching myself and my brother live together again a lost morning of our lives.

Somehow it gave me the thing every one comes back to find, and when I went inside the door I felt at home at last, and at peace with the past.

Chaining Constitutional Power

By George Sokolsky

Thomas James Norton, an important scholar in the field of government, in his book, "Un dermining the Constitution," says:

"The constitutional government of the United States is scientific. Science is defined as classified knowledge, or the conclusions which the classification compels. The causes of all the breakdowns of governments in history were gone over in the Constitutional Convention and it was concluded that law making, law enforcing, and law interpreting must be definitely in different hands . . .

"All officials, state and national, were put under oath to support the Constitution and observe the boundaries to power specified in it. As far as could be, men with power were chained."

The problem that the founding fathers faced was the abuse of power. George III and his minister, Lord North, had abused power. Because of that, they lost the richest jewel in the British crown, the American colonies that subsequently became the United States.

Those who wrote our Constitution realized that the day might come when the United States itself would find power abused by officials chosen by the electorate. They sought to avert such a condition, but Jefferson once wrote of the Constitution: "it would still have one fault in my eye, that of perpetual re-eligibility of the president."

The American people have corrected this fault by the Twenty-Second Amendment to the Constitution, which limits the president to two terms. This amendment became necessary because Franklin D. Roosevelt had violated the unwritten tradition established by George Washington of a two-term limitation.

However, the two-term limitation can have an effect contrary to that desired, namely, that the president, not seeking public approval, may, if he is not restrained by morals, act irresponsibly. This spectacle, we are, in a measure, now witnessing in the president's claim to unlimited power, which has had to go to the supreme court for decision.

The method by which the president is chosen is of very great importance, as in it is involved what Alexander Hamilton called cabal, intrigue, corruption. In 1932, the principal Democratic contestants for the presidency were: Alfred E. Smith, Newton D. Baker, Franklin D. Roosevelt and John Nance Garner. The most popular candidate was Al Smith; the most skillful manager was James A. Farley.

It is no secret that Franklin D. Roosevelt was nominated through the influence of William Randolph Hearst. Henry L. Stoddard, in "It Costs To Be President," recited the following:

" . . . Paul Block, the well-known publisher, and I sat in his room for a good-night exchange of opinion. He then said that he had been talking over the telephone with 'W. R.' and that a deal had been arranged by which the 69 Texas and California delegates, after complimenting Garner on two or three ballots, would swing to Roosevelt. He added that Garner would go on the ticket as vice president and McAdoo was to have no opposition in California for the Democratic nomination for U. S. senator.

"The news was in confidence, however, for Hearst, of course, had no power to release delegates pledged to any candidate. That was for Garner and McAdoo to do. Hearst, however, undertook to talk with both of them and with Mayor Cermak of Chicago, who controlled the Illinois delegation. He persuaded all three that after a few ballots they should turn to Roosevelt, and they did."

This, in effect, nullified the convention. It was similar to the nomination of Warren G. Harding through the influence of Colonel George Harvey in the smoke-filled hotel room. In the 1940 convention, Thomas Lamont and the National Association of Manufacturers put over a former member of Tammany Hall, Wendell Willkie, on the Republican party.

In fact, anyone who attends the convention of either party, which this year will be on television, knows that debate, discussion, due consideration is impossible. Starting slowly and dully, the convention moves, in a crescendo, to the roar of a circus.

The delegates shout and shriek and march about in mass pandemonium. They even hire actors to help them in their antics and I presume, now that television has been added, there will be the usual models in differing degrees of undress. In this raucous atmosphere, few men can deliberate. So, the more serious-minded gather in hotel rooms to transact their business and the telephone becomes a more important instrument of the people's will than the chosen delegate.

"Nonsense, my dear, you've never looked better."

Diet and Health Feeding Through Vein Sometimes Necessary

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN

When a person is unable to take enough food by mouth, he can be fed through a vein.

Of course, the type of nourishment that can be taken this way is different from a soup or broth that could be handled by the stomach and digestive system. A mixture of certain sugar solutions in the nourishment that has proved best in many cases.

Feeding by vein is often necessary to supply extra food quickly after a severe injury or a difficult or prolonged operation. At other times, a person may be unable to take any food by mouth, as after swallowing a large amount of iye, which burns the tube to the stomach.

Types of Liquids Used

Various kinds of liquids can be taken by vein. The one most commonly used is a solution of a type of sugar known as glucose. However, amino acids, blood and blood plasma may all be given with excellent results, depending on the case.

In the case of severe burns, it is usually essential to give plasma and blood through a vein. With hemorrhage, blood is given. Glucose is the most common solution used to build up a person for a surgical operation and during the recovery period afterwards.

Many times a patient's system shows a definite shortage of glucose before and after an operation. It has been difficult to make up this shortage with glucose solution because the body uses it too slowly when received through a vein.

Newer Solution

Scientists have now perfected a newer solution composed of glucose together with fructose, a slightly different form of sugar. When this mixture is given instead of plain glucose, twice the amount can be taken in the same period of time.

As a rule, the combination also provides more immediate nourishment, and prevents a loss of proteins from the body, which usually results when other fluids are given. The combined sugars also put less strain on the liver.

Newer and more nourishing fluids are thus helping patients recover from their operations with greater speed.

Kefauver Gains Disturb Bosses

By Ray Tucker

WASHINGTON, May 14.—Senator Estes Kefauver's persistent primary gains have led desperate Democratic bosses to renew their efforts to draft Governor Adlai E. Stevenson of Illinois for the presidential nomination. They figure that he is the only man able to sidetrack the plodding Tennesseean, who is disliked by both the northern and southern politicians. "Jake" Arvey, Democratic national committee-man for Illinois, has been in constant telephonic touch with White House and Congressional leaders since Kefauver's Ohio victory and his remarkable showing against Senator Richard B. Russell of Georgia in the Florida contest.

"Jake" assures associates that Stevenson will respond, if he is confronted with an actual offer of the prize by the convention.

The machine bosses' hostility toward Kefauver, together with the weakness of all the other Democratic entries, requires the selection of the Illinoisan, in the opinion of party strategists.

ANGLE — There is a generally unpublicized angle to the chieftains' concern. If they should name anybody other than Stevenson in order to block off Kefauver, he will obviously be the choice of a few scheming and hard-boiled convention bosses assembled in a "smoke-filled room." By comparison, the 1920 backroom compromise on Warren G. Harding would seem to be a people's triumph.

A mere listing of the liabilities which burden every Democratic aspirant except Stevenson and Kefauver emphasizes this unpalatable fact. Here is a cold and factual analysis of the status of the stop-Kefauver possibilities, as the party politicians look over the field.

SUBSTITUTE — Har r i m a n: The New York banker and railroad magnate would be a completely synthetic candidate. He was tapped by Truman and the Empire State organization only because they needed a substitute for Stevenson. He is too closely linked with questionable foreign policy under the Roosevelt and Truman regimes.

He is not well known to the politicians and the people. Although he may have more than 90 boss-controlled delegates on the first ballot, he has received less than 5,000 votes in all the primaries held so far. He makes a poor appearance and speech before large audiences.

Kerr: An utter impossibility because of his wishy-washy stand on almost every public issue. His suspected anti-Civil Rights attitude makes him unavailable to the big city politicians. So does his fight to deprive the Federal Power Commission of jurisdiction over prices of natural gas gathered within the producing states.

STANDPOINTS — Russell: Although undoubtedly the best qualified man from many standpoints, the northern faction would never agree to him because of his leadership of the Dixie bloc in the Senate. His narrow margin over Kefauver in Florida, especially as the latter carried the largest cities, has hurt the popular and able senator from Georgia.

Barkley: He is too old. Three much younger presidents — Wilson, Harding, Roosevelt — have died in office or shortly thereafter of demands not nearly so grueling as the next chief executive must endure.

WEAKEST — McMahon: Merely a favorite son from Connecticut, entered to give him and his local backers whatever prestige may accrue. He served as a member of the Tydings committee charged with "whitewashing" the original investigation of Owen Lattimore. He is a Catholic.

Truman: He is determined not to bow to a draft. He would probably be the Democrats' weakest candidate.

Incidentally, it is ironic that the Republicans' convention action may affect Stevenson's ultimate decision. It is not believed that he would agree to run, if the GOP chooses Eisenhower. He likes "Ike," and his attitude on foreign affairs.

SUSPENSION — Although the Federal Reserve Board is rarely motivated by political considerations, its recent suspension of curbs on installment buying had an earthy aspect. It feared that continuance would lead Congress to strip it of all its current authority to impose controls.

Credit groups, retailers and purchasers have complained to members against drastic restrictions at a time when so many prices were below ceilings, goods were not moving and many customers were deprived of satisfying wants, especially semi-luxuries, because of heavy down payments. The backlog of unsold commodities was beginning to create unemployment. Warehouses were cluttered with inventories.

Speaker Tells Rotarians of Objections To Proposed Constitutional Convention

Reasons for opposition to the proposal for a Constitutional Convention in Ohio, were voiced in an informative talk before Rotarians and guests at the Rotary Club luncheon here Tuesday, by Morris E. Alton, assistant director of legislation for the Ohio Farm Bureau Federation.

Alton, whose headquarters are in Columbus, is a resident of Westerville. He was formerly a public relations representative for Otterbein College but has been active in Farm Bureau work for some time.

Introduced by W. W. Montgomery, county agricultural agent, Alton explained in considerable detail many things concerning the pro and con arguments regarding the need for a Constitutional Convention in Ohio.

The proposition of deciding whether or not such a convention shall be called in Ohio comes before the voters at the next November election. Under Ohio's Constitution this question must be submitted to the voters every 20 years.

Alton said that if the majority of the electors of Ohio vote for a Constitutional Convention at the general election in November 1952, it becomes the duty of the next General Assembly to provide by law for the election of delegates and the assembling of the convention.

If Ohio votes negatively on this question next November there will not be another automatic consideration of the matter until 1972, although the General Assembly may, at any session, by a two-thirds vote in each house, submit the same question to the voters at any general election.

IN PRESENTING information on this general issue, the speaker explained that Ohio has had four Constitutional Conventions: the first met in 1802, the second in 1850-51, the third in 1872-73, the fourth in 1912. The first convention prepared the Constitution under which Ohio entered the Union in 1803; the second prepared the Constitution of 1851 which is now the basic law of the state. The new Constitution prepared by the third convention was rejected by the voters. The 1912 convention did not attempt to prepare an entire new document. However, it submitted to the people at a special election on September 3, 1912, a ballot containing 41 items of amendment, 33 of which were approved. Thus Ohio is operating today under a Constitution framed and adopted in 1851, with some seventy odd amendments which have been made in the last 99 years, nearly half of them as a result of the convention of 1912.

Alton stated that six reasons have been advanced for the calling of a Constitutional Convention in Ohio, namely:

(1) The age of the present constitution; (2) the obsolescence of certain sections; (3) the illogical arrangement of sections; (4) the complexity of language used in the present constitution; (5) the legislative character of some of the provisions which it is contended should be eliminated; and (6) that certain new features should be incorporated.

The speaker, taking up each of these in turn, outlined how opposition to a proposed convention refuted these charges.

He said that as for the matter of age, references have been made to our "Ox-cart Constitution in an atomic age." Such utterances may be good advertising but can hardly be seriously considered. Longevity is no reason for condemning a constitution or plan of government that is workable.

THERE ARE grave doubts, Alton asserted, as to the merit of the claim that certain sections are obsolete. The wisdom of omitting such fundamentals as the prohibition against imprisonment for debt, the granting of hereditary privileges and enactment of legislation working a corruption of the blood, which have been labeled "obsolete", is not only questionable, but the elimination of such prohibitions could be definitely dangerous. While a few provisions may properly be labeled as obsolete, their presence in the constitution can do no harm, he contended.

Answering further the reasons advanced for a convention, Alton declared that the arrangement of sections is illogical may be conceded. But, again, no harm results. While some improvement might be accomplished in this respect, as in the matter of omitting some actually obsolete provisions, none of these matters are deemed to be of sufficient importance to warrant the calling of a convention.

That the language of the present constitution is complex, leading to costly litigation, is a reason which might have some merit, were it not for the limitations of man's ability to express in words exactly what he means. In the first place, much of the claim to complexity has been cured by judicial interpretation in the century during which the present constitution has been in effect. An overhauling of the language used would undoubtedly introduce new ambiguities and more costly litigation.

It may be conceded, the speaker said, that some of the provisions of the present constitution might better be left for legislative action. It is felt, however, that none of the provisions so considered have resulted in any harm. If there is any great need for the elimination of any of these provisions, this could readily be accomplished by repeal.

The sixth reason advanced by the proponents of a convention, suggests many innovations, Alton said. Among these he listed the arguments that the governor should have greater appointive and administrative power, reform of the methods of selecting judges, restoration of municipal home rule and reapportionment of the Ohio General Assembly which, the speaker said, would base representation to a larger extent on population with the inevitable result of big cities having control of the legislature.

DECLARING THAT there are already adequate means to keep Ohio's constitution up to date, he said the process of amendment is one alternative to a Constitutional Convention as a means of keeping a constitution abreast of the times. There are two ways in which amendments may be made: (1) by proposal of the legislature and approval by the voters, (2) by initiative petition followed by approval by the voters.

The Ohio General Assembly in the past has proposed 53 amendments, 25 of which have been adopted, he explained. Thirty-two amendments have been proposed by initiative petition since it became available in 1912. Nine of the 32 amendments so proposed were adopted by the voters but one was ineffective because it was in conflict with another amendment adopted at the same election.

Alton went into detail in mentioning other objections but that adequate machinery, in an orderly and a more intelligent manner than the calling of a convention, is provided for by the constitution itself; that any meritorious reform suggested can more readily be obtained through these channels; that it is therefore unnecessary that a convention be called.

At the conclusion of Alton's address, President Ed Moser thanked him for bringing his views on this question. Moser stated that possibly the other side of the argument might be presented later by another speaker, according to good American tradition.

MOSER TOLD the club that the local Rotary board of directors had rewritten the club's constitution and by-laws, through the work of a special committee, and that the new constitution would be up for a vote by the club at its last meeting in June, before the annual change of officers took place.

The president also reminded the club that on Thursday, June 12, at the Country Club at 6:30 P. M., a joint dinner meeting with the London Rotarians would be held with the Washington club as host by reason of losing an attendance contest with London.

Gov. Frank Lausche is to be the speaker at this event. There will be no regular meeting of the Washington Rotarians on the Tuesday previous to this joint meeting.

During the club meeting birthday greetings were sung for Stanley Schneider and Paul Dougherty.

Extensive changes in the Mississippi River Valley were made by violent earthquakes in the winter of 1811-12, including the formation of Reelfoot Lake, 14 miles long and four miles wide.

A 14-year-old Clinton County student has been declared winner in the Ohio Farm Bureau's state-wide soil conservation essay contest.

He is Wilbur Doak, of New Antioch, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Doak. He is a freshman at Wayne Township High School in Clinton County, and was presented with a $200 check for his essay "Farming For the Future," at a banquet held in Columbus.

The banquet was called to honor the seven district winning essayists: Rachel Elizabeth Combs, New Concord; Harold Edwin Gault, Ashland; James H. Webber, Cove; Richard H. Dauer, Perrysburg; Shirley Mutschelknaus, Sugar Creek; Roger Willis Dicke, New Bremen and Doak.

Each was presented with a bronze engraved plaque.

Fayette County winners in the contest were: Jeffersonville High School - Marvin Smith (county winner) and Artie Lee Dunn.

Wayne High School - Billie McFadden and Phyllis McCoy.

Madison Mills High School, Gary Hidy and Mary Hollar.

THESE YOUNG people will be given a one or two day conservation tour, with all expenses paid by the County Farm Bureau.

Last fall 30 pupils from these three high schools visited four farms in the county on a conservation field day tour and then wrote essays for the contest.

Dean L. L. Rummel, College of Agriculture, Ohio State University, was the featured speaker for the banquet, while Dr. Jonathan Forman, Columbus physician and vice pres., Friends of the Land, acted as toastmaster. Presentation of awards was made by A. W. Marion, State Director of Natural Resources.

The state-wide contest is sponsored each year by the Farm Bureau, in cooperation with the Soil Conservation Service, Extension Service and other agricultural organizations and agencies, and county and local school systems in an effort to stimulate interest among young people in soil conservation.

Judges for this year's contest were Dean Rummel; Roy Battles, farm program director, Station WLW, Cincinnati; and Clyde Hisong, director of the state department of Education.

1952 marked the third year for the contest on a state-wide basis.

It's Raining Homeruns In Major Loops

Pitchers See 18 Of Their Fat Ones Take Wings Tuesday

NEW YORK, May 14—Major league pitchers got an inkling of things to come Tuesday afternoon at Ebbets Field when five of their offerings were hammered for homeruns as the Brooklyn Dodgers won a 14-8 slugfest from the St. Louis Cardinals.

Gil Hodges and pitcher Ben Wade homered for the Dodgers. Stan Musial hit two out of the park for the Cards and Larry Miggins hit one.

By midnight, 16 homers had been rapped in the eight games, the biggest single day output of the young season. Heretofore, the major league campaign had featured tight pitching duels with accent on shut-outs and low-hit games.

Homeruns by Ray Boone, Larry Doby and Dale Mitchell gave the Cleveland Indians a 10-6 victory over the New York Yankees. The win, Cleveland's fourth in a row over the world champions, helped the Tribe to retain their two-game American League lead over Washington.

STEVE GROMEK registered his second straight triumph over the Yankees and his third of the season without a defeat. He did not escape unscathed, however. A two-run homer by Gil MacDougald started him on the way to the showers and it took good relief pitching by Lou Brissie and Early Wynn to preserve his victory.

Boone had a perfect day at bat. He added a double and two singles to his homer and batted in four runs. The last time he faced the Yankees, Boone drove in five runs with a homer, single and long fly.

A trio of four-baggers helped the New York Giants defeat the Cincinnati Reds, 7-4, and maintain their one-game National League margin over the Dodgers.

Bobby Thomson cracked a homer with a man on base and followed with a bases-loaded double to account for five runs batted in. Bob Elliott and Willie Mays also homered for the Giants and Ted Kluszewski for the Reds.

Minnie Minoso was the Chicago White Sox homer-getter as they whipped the Boston Red Sox, 5-0. Minoso blasted a 415-foot homer and added a two-run single to drive in four runs and make it easy for Billy Pierce.

Eddie Mathews hit his seventh homerun to lead the Boston Braves to a 3-1 verdict over the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Curt Simmons, only a month out of the service, pitched the Philadelphia Phils to a 6-0 victory over the Chicago Cubs. Simmons fanned 12, including the last four to face him.

Bobby Shantz pitched and batted the Philadelphia Athletics to a 5-1 win over the St. Louis Browns, while Washington won its ninth game in its last 10 starts, as Connie Marrero hurled a five-hit 4-3 victory over the Detroit Tigers.

Jeffersonville Wins From Bowersville

Although outhit, Jeffersonville's Tigers handed the boys from Bowersville a 7 to 4 beating on the Jeffersonville lot Tuesday afternoon.

Dale Coppock was nicked for 8 safeties, but he kept them so well scattered that the Bowersvillians could convert them into only 4 tallies.

The Tigers were held to five hits, but they took advantage of four Bowersville errors to turn them into 7 runs.

The game was fairly steady all the way with the scoring spread evenly over five innings. The most either team could score in any one frame was two runs.

Thirteen was not unlucky for the Tigers; they used that many players and still won the game.

Lions Nosed Out at London As Season Approaches End

In spite of the 8 runs that were scored, it was a pitcher's battle the Lions of WHS lost, 5 to 3, to the Red Raiders at London Tuesday afternoon.

The Lions tallied their 3 runs on solid hits, but the Red Raiders got theirs almost entirely on errors with a few hits mixed in.

Those three miscues made by the Lions were costly. The Raiders put across two unearned runs in the second to tie the score on errors and they added the 3 that put the game on ice in the fifth on three hits and another error.

The Lions had difficulty in hitting when hits would have counted. Simpson scattered their five hits so effectively that they could not score more than one run in any inning.

They got one across in the first and another in the second to take an early lead.

It looked like the Washington C. H. boys were going to avenge the defeat the Raiders handed them in opening game here April 8.

Then came two runs on an error to tie the score and the three that put them ahead in the fifth.

Wayne Van Meter, on the mound for the Lions, held the Raiders to 5 scattered hits but the WHS defense sprung its small leaks at crucial times.

Bob Alkire had a perfect day at the plate with two hits in two trips.

Hillsboro's Indians were here Wednesday (today) afternoon playing off a postponed game.

Unless the other game with the Indians which was balked by cold and rain is playedoff, the Lions will wind up their baseball season at Frankfort Friday afternoon.

Yonkers Stake Honors Split

YONKERS, N. Y., May 14—Mrs. C. G. Smith's Danny Boy and Eddy Blum's Jersey Boy of Sherbrook, Que., split the honors in the $5,520 Dobbs Ferry Trotting Stake on the Yonkers Raceway Grand Circuit program Tuesday night.

Dick Williams, handling Danny Boy, was forced to go inside the entire mile against the fast stepping Kroger Babb to get the nod in the final strides in 2:07.3. Galley slave was third.

In the second division, favored Virginia Flow led until the top of the stretch when she broke while being challenged by Scotch Spirits. Del MacTavish slipped forward from third place to take the lead with Jersey Boy. Blitzen Up was second and Pay Way third.

Lion Athletes Have Big Time At Relays at Upper Arlington

The Washington C. H. High School athletes scored only 15 1/2 points in the Upper Arlington Relays, Tuesday afternoon, but they had a "wonderful time."

Eleven teams competed in the meet.

Worthington's track and field team won the meet just as it had done in the Miami University class B meet last Saturday. Bellefontaine was second, which was not much of a surprise either.

Carl Smith took the only first place for WHS when he won the 100-yard dash in 10.5.

Bob Deering, however, was setting the pace in front of the field in the high hurdles when he hit one and fell. He was well on his way to winning when misfortune overtook him. He hurt his knee and was unable to start in the low hurdles, which also appeared to be just his dish.

Smith also placed third in the high jump. Ron Dawson was fifth in the 100-yard dash behind his teammate and Bob Bailey finished fourth in the mile run. He hurt his foot and an X-ray examination was scheduled to determine whether he had broken a small bone. That was the extent of the scoring for the Lions' thincads.

COACH CURT KOONS took a squad of 17 performers and the manager, Ron Meyer, to Upper Arlington. On the team were Roger Allen, Bob Bailey, Willis Bailey, Omar Breakall, Neil Childress, Ron Dawson, Bob Deering, Jack English, Don Foster, Max Schlichter, Lyle Self, Carl Smith, Joe Provost, Jim Williams, Dale Wilson, Dick and John Sexton.

Washington C. H. High School was one of the original schools to enter the Upper Arlington Relays and the program was dedicated to the Lions and their coach.

On the fly leaf was this greeting: "Washington C. H. High School—Curt Koons, coach—returns as an entry in the Upper Arlington Relays. It was one of the original schools to send a team to our meet.

"We hope Mr. Koons and his boys find our relays interesting and worthwhile and will return."

Both coach Koons and the Lion athletes were beaming with pleasure over that recognition. They said "we certainly were treated royally . . . we had a wonderful time."

The Lions will wind up their track season at the district meet at Delaware Saturday.

Surgeon Tells Of Repairs On Human Heart

CLEVELAND, May 14.—Ten days ago, a surgeon kept his hand inside the beating heart of a 47-year-old housewife for 45 minutes to perform two delicate operations. Monday night the housewife sat in on a meeting to hear the operations described.

The surgeon is Dr. Earle B. Kay, chief of cardiac surgery at St. Vincent's Charity Hospital.

The woman, Mrs. Angela Valore, was suffering, before the operation, from these two conditions:

The mitral valve between the two chambers of the left side of her heart was so narrow that not enough blood passed through to supply the general circulation needs of her body.

The wall between the two upper chambers of her heart, had a hole in it the size of a half dollar.

The result: Her blood, instead of following its normal route from the upper left chamber to the lower left chamber, "short circuited" through the hole into the upper right chamber. The combination of the two defects caused great activity of blood flow into the lungs and enlargement of the artery leading to the lungs.

Depending almost wholly on his sense of touch, Dr. Kay first corrected the valve defect. Then he brought together the edges of the hole between the chambers, sewing them with a purse-string stitch.

Doctors since have been unable to hear any murmur in Mrs. Valore's heart. They believe there now is no leak in the wall.

Mudflaps Upheld

COLUMBUS, May 14.—(P)—Atty. Gen. C. William O'Neill reports the U. S. Supreme Court has upheld Ohio's law requiring trucks to have mudguard flaps. O'Neill said the court dismissed an appeal from the law on the lack of a substantial federal question.

Fortune Is Left Tied In Bloomers

CHICAGO, May 14.—A fortune in cash and securities, all tied up in pink bloomers, stockings and a pillow case, was found Monday in a safe deposit box owned by an 85-year-old widow who died five months ago.

Officials found currency—in $1 to $500 bills—totaling $120,712 in the bloomers and stockings. The money in the pillow case will be counted Thursday.

The safe deposit box was rented to the late Mrs. Cora Draper in 1915. Before she died last Dec. 9 she executed a will, leaving virtually all her estate, estimated at $300,000, to her attorney, Pierre J. Pelouquin. The will is being contested by Mrs. Pearl Golab, who was left $1,000. She said she was promised $100,000.

Dynamite Used To Blast Body

UPPER SANDUSKY, May 14.—

Several pieces of a man's body were found on a farm in an isolated wooded area here Monday and officers said they thought someone blasted the body with dynamite to prevent identity.

Elmer Wyss, a farmer, found the remains when he went to dump a load of trash. Pieces of the body were scattered over a 200 foot area. Sheriff B. H. Stansberry said four limbs were found nearby intact. He said fingers on both hands were burned in a possible attempt to destroy fingerprints.

Minister Speaks To Lions Club

World Conditions
Called Tragic

Probably no more forceful or meaningful presentation was ever heard by the Washington C. H. Lions than was presented at the club's Tuesday evening meeting at the Country Club.

The speaker was Rev. Paul Jones, pastor of the Church of Christ at Hillsboro, regarded as one of the most promising young men of the ministry in this state.

His talk was, as Homer Bireley declared in his introduction, "a striking, down to earth message which would emphasize our deep need of Christianity today to save us from ourselves."

Guests at the meeting were Rev. Don McMillin, pastor of the Washington C. H. First Christian Church, and Omar Schwartz, an attorney.

DURING THE club's brief business session, Ray French gave a report of the activities being carried out by the Scout troop sponsored by the club.

Walter Rettig reported on the work being completed on the troop meeting place, which is being completely remodeled by the club members.

It was announced that the next meeting of the club would be a "Barn Dance" at the Emerson Marting farm on Saturday, May 24.

The speaker began his remarks with a reference to the fact that he regarded the present period as one of the "most useful and tragic in the history of this country and of the world."

"The forces of destruction are eating at our foundations," he asserted, and then continued with a comparison of our living and attitudes today with the period that led to the fall of the Roman Empire.

HE POINTED out what historians had recounted as to conditions which caused the downfall of this empire when Rome was regarded as the Eternal City and when the empire was considered impregnable as a world power.

In that day, he said, there was a noticeable increase in the divorce rate, the undermining of home life due to lack of family responsibility toward it, rapid increase in tax rate without due regard from rulers as to careful use of the tax money, indifference to the growing unrest of the populace, a big increase in interest in sports with the idea of taking the minds of the people off of more serious matters, rapid increase in the build up of militarism.

LITTLE ATTENTION seemed to be paid in those days to the growth of conditions which was building up enemies within, which presented a danger greater than any enemies without, the speaker said. People lived as they pleased; there was deterioration of religious spirit.

"Today, these same destructive forces are eating at the heart of America," he asserted. Playing for the favor of the multitude without regard for the consequences, catering to the spirit of amusement and to the idea that the best conditions in life do not have to be earned by honest effort and self-discipline, or by regard for the rights and lives of others, were mentioned by the speaker as prevailing sentiment of the time on the part of a majority of people.

With an impassioned outburst he warned that there may be truth in what historians have pointed out that no democracy has lived more than 200 years.

"Will the next 25 years spell the doom of our American democracy?" he asked.

AT THIS POINT, Rev. Jones then made a powerful plea for a return to the simple principles and religious teaching which will keep alive the dream of peace, not directing all out thinking toward military supremacy. He said that the time was ripe and the opportunity was never better to achieve those dreams. "I believe that our present generation is the first in history to have a chance to make this dream come true," he declared.

He asserted that what America needs most of all is a return to the old-fashioned reverence for the Almighty, faith in God, faith in our fellowmen and faith in ourselves.

Ace Murry Has Narrow Escape

Nearly Drowns in Overturned Auto

Ace Murry of Good Hope, narrowly escaped death by drowning Tuesday about 4:15 P. M., when his automobile left the highway at the approach to the bridge over Indian Creek in the northwest edge of Good Hope, and overturned in a ditch containing some 2 1/2 feet of water.

Murry was unable to get out of the car and the water was within a few inches of submerging him when Raymond Rodgers, who was near at the time, went to his rescue and succeeded in extricating him from his precarious situation.

Murry was not injured seriously although dazed for a short time. His only injury was a bruised leg. Wednesday he apparently was in his usual health.

Murry was unable to explain the accident. He said the last he recalled prior to the mishap was driving down the grade at the Lewis Rodgers residence 200 yards north of the scene of the accident.

His car left the road on the south side near the bridge. The top was partly submerged in the water after it overturned.

Timely arrival of Rodgers and his quick work in rescuing Murry probably saved Murry's life.

Murry is one of the best known residents of Good Hope and for many years operated a general store in the village.

A few years ago he was honored as an outstanding citizen, in the "Best is Yet to Come" series of entertainments staged at the high school auditorium here.

Ambitious Farmers To Attend Church

The Ambitious Farmers, a 4-H Club in the Jeffersonville community, today were making plans to attend the Methodist Church there as a club next Sunday as a part of their National 4-H Week observance.

The announcement of the plan for all of the club members, 10 boys and one girl, to attend church together was made at Tuesday night's meeting at the home of Ronnie Sears.

The meeting was conducted by the president, Eldon Smith, after the customary opening routine.

The group talked about its projects, livestock and gardening, and made tentative plans for a project tour. The tour date was not set, however.

After the meeting there were games that came to an end with the serving of refreshments.

The next meeting is to be held June 6 at the home of Robert Rines.

Ney Buzick Funeral To Be Held Thursday

Funeral services for Ney Buzick, who died Tuesday in Columbus, will be held Thursday at 2 P. M. at the Gersner Funeral Home, and will be conducted by Rev. Harold J. Braden, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church.

Interment will be made in the mausoleum in the Washington C. H. Cemetery.

Vocational Courses at WHS Get Support of Selden Grange

A resolution recommending the continuance of vocational agriculture and home economics courses at Washington C. H. High School was adopted by Selden Grange at their meeting Tuesday evening.

The resolution was adopted following a discussion on the value of the course to Fayette County because of the large farm population.

The time for starting Grange meetings was changed from 8 P. M. to 8:30 P. M. during June, July and August.

The members voted to observe Rural Life Sunday by attending worship service as a group at White Oak Methodist Church, May 25.

The proposed charitable foundation fund for Fayette County was discussed. A motion was passed directing the secretary to invite attorney, John P. Case to a future Grange meeting to explain the subject more in detail.

Edwin Buck, worthy master, appointed a general committee to make arrangements for the Grange exhibit at the Fair. Those named were Doris Wipert, Mabel Sollars, Doris Mark, Helen Perrill, Herbert Perrill and Ralph Knisley. Other committees to assist will be appointed later.

THE LITERARY program was in charge of Mrs. Dorothy McDonald, who read a short poem, "Nose to the Grindstone." She then announced that Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Rhoad would present the rest of the program.

Herbert Perrill read the column from a recent issue of the Ohio Farmer, which was written by Rev. Russell Hoy, Chaplain of the Ohio State Grange.

A poem, "Why Johnny Left the Farm" was read by Frances Gine. A story depicting the troubles of a mechanically minded boy with some of the subjects in the school curriculum was told by Mrs. Rhoad.

Slides of farm life in Nebraska were then shown to the group.

Mr. Rhoad closed the program with the poem, "What My Farm Means to Me."

Refreshments were served by Mr. and Mrs. Orville Bush, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Mohr, Mr. and Mrs. Millard Weidinger, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Bower, Mrs. Martha Garland, Mr. and Mrs. Homer Stewart and Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Nisley.

Interment was made in the Williamsport Cemetery.

The pallbearers were Edward Rinehart, Carl Rinehart, Rex Pitt, Harry Wallace, Carl Morris and Glenn Morris.

The word "mind" was originally a verb, not a noun.

Restaurant Owners To Meet Thursday

Restaurant owners throughout the county are to meet Thursday evening at Anderson's Drive Inn to draw up plans and elect officers for a new restaurant owners organization. The meeting is scheduled to get underway at 8 P. M.

The group, which has held two previous meetings to see whether there was a desire by the restaurant owners to form an organization, will also decide whether they want to affiliate with the state restaurant association or remain as a county group. They will also select a name for the group.

However, the main part of the business meeting will be the election of officers to serve the group for the coming year.

Joe Loudner was appointed as temporary chairman at one of the earlier meetings. His four assistants, are Charles Funk, Cecil Hapenny, Elton Anderson and Charles Jones the county sanitarian.

Following the business meeting the members will bring up for discussion any problems common to restaurant owners in the county.

Tractor Club Plans Hayride And Party

Plans for a hayride and wieners roast and a discussion on what to have at the Fair this year were the main topics discussed at the meeting of the first year 4-H Tractor Club.

The members decided to have a party as their final meeting of the year shortly after the end of school. They also made plans to combine their work with that of the second and third year clubs for a booth at the Fair this year.

They will get together with the other groups to decide what type of booth they will have.

This past year the group has been studying some of the basic rules on repair and maintenance of farm tractors and equipment.

Now you Know!

The Answers to everyday Insurance problems *
By Leonard Korn and Dana Hver

QUESTION: The other day a friend and I were discussing this "Home Owners Liability" insurance and a question came up that you may be able to answer. Is the property owner always liable for damages in accidents that happen on his property?

No, of course not. Usually a property owner is held liable only in those instances where he is usually negligent. However, since it usually takes a couple of attorneys and sometimes a judge and jury to decide who was negligent, it's a good idea to have constant protection in the form of Liability Insurance.

*If you'll address your own insurance questions to this office, we'll try to give you the correct answers and there will be no charge or obligation of any kind.
